Follow up

Give your Visionary a deadline to decide, and follow up as necessary.

Remember that as an Integrator, you're a strong leader. Your Visionary trusts you if you're in this position, and you're the glue that holds your leadership team together.

A strong Integrator means a strong company vision

And we know the best way to strengthen your Integrator

First things first, why are you here?

You're here because your Integrator (or someone who wants to see your Integrator succeed) has discovered FIM.

FIM is a growing coalition of female Integrators who are leading or co-leading their company, executing on the business plan, keeping their teams together, holding the Leadership Team accountable, and, well, getting things done.

Your Integrator is already a strong leader. You trust her. She's the glue for your organization and holds your leadership team together. We're not here to create Integrators; we're here to give them a community and resources to become their best selves.

Why FIM

As Integrators ourselves, we know how often female Integrators feel like they're on an island all alone.

You might not understand the things that excite and disappoint your Integrator, and there's so much they do that no one sees or knows about. We felt these things in our own organizations, so we created FIM.
